

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface	v
Part I: Client and Planner Attitudes, Values, and Biases
Chapter 1: Framing Advice in Light of Client’s Risk Tolerance.....	1
Chapter 2: Developing a Productive Client-Planner Relationship that Addresses the Psychological Elements of Financial Planning	19
Chapter 3: Identifying and Responding to Client Values and Goals	29
Part II: Behavioral Finance
Chapter 4: Impact of Cognitive Biases and Heuristics on Financial Decision-making and Well-being.....	41
Chapter 5: Client Psychology Barriers in the Financial Planning Process and Strategies for Overcoming Them	53
Part III: Sources of Money Conflict
Chapter 6: Building the Client’s Motivation for Achieving Their Financial Goals	67
Chapter 7: Examining Couple and Family Financial Transparency.....	79
Chapter 8: Mediating Financial Conflict	87
Chapter 9: Facilitating Goal Congruence	99
Chapter 10: Identifying When Money is Being Used as Manipulation	111
Part IV: Principles of Counseling
Chapter 11: Applying Financial Counseling Skills to the Financial Planning Process	121
Chapter 12: Forging Trusting Relationships	131
Part V: General Principles of Effective Communication
Chapter 13: Multifaceted Communication.....	143
Part VI: Crisis Events with Severe Consequences
Chapter 14: Navigating Change	157
Chapter 15: Building Your Empathetic Muscles.....	169
Index	179

